FORWARD

On behalf of the staff, research fellows, and students of The John C. Stennis Institute of Government and Community Development at Mississippi State University, I would like to present to you our latest installment of the bi-annual Municipal Salary and Benefits Survey, a collaborative effort between the Stennis Institute and the Mississippi Municipal League.

Based at our state's land grant university, the Stennis Institute is often referred to as Mississippi's think tank, but the Stennis Institute is much more. We are frequently called upon to provide technical assistance and consultation to state officials, local governments and community leaders regarding political, governmental, and economic/community development matters. Our mission is to enhance the capacities of state and local officials to deal effectively with today's challenges regarding many issues. The Stennis Institute delivers a wide array of services and technical assistance to municipalities, counties, and government agencies, responding to the ever-changing political and economic environment.

The Stennis Institute performs a threefold mission: (1) to enhance the efficiency and effectiveness of Mississippi state and local governments through basic and applied research, training, technical assistance, and service; (2) to provide technical assistance and research for both rural development in Mississippi and regional activities in the Southeast; and (3) to promote civic education and citizen involvement in the political process.

I hope you benefit from the extensive efforts of the Institute's staff in your time studying this installment of the Municipal Salary and Benefits Survey. Should you have any questions regarding the information contained herein, please do not hesitate to contact the Stennis Institute at 662-325-3328. Thank you for taking an interest in this work and for all you do to make a better Mississippi.

Dr. J. "Dallas" Breen

Stennis Institute Executive Director

ORGANIZATIONAL & COMPENSATION ANALYSIS OVERVIEW

Personnel matters are of central importance to the operation of today’s municipal government. Indeed, the efficiency and effectiveness of a municipal government sits squarely on the shoulders of its personnel system. These systems marked by arbitrary compensation levels, capricious decisions regarding promotion and termination, or wildly disparate management styles can cripple a municipality’s operation and lead to poor service delivery. In the past, many municipal governments have operated with only rudimentary personnel systems, or in some cases, without a personnel system of any type. As increased citizen expectations related to the volume and quality of municipal service delivery increase the need for fair and equitable personnel systems increases as well.

As part of its legislatively funded mission to supply targeted technical research and assistance to local governments, the Stennis Institute actively conducts personnel and compensation analysis for Mississippi municipalities and counties. In general, the objectives of these efforts are to develop:

- An analysis of current wage and salary levels in terms of the external labor market. This analysis often includes conducting a wage and salary survey of other counties and municipalities within the local labor market.
- Design of a compensation plan for possible implementation by the governing authorities of the organization. This plan will include local labor market conditions that may impact turnover rate and any other factors associated with the local labor force.
- Design of a plan for implementing wage and salary levels for newly created positions within the city or county’s organizational structure.
- The development of a set of cost estimates for implementing the compensation plan, if adopted by local governing authorities.

The Institute actively uses the national O*NET job analysis and classification system, not only to inform the analysis of the knowledge, skills and abilities necessary to perform each occupational position within the organization, but to also provide comparable, real-time salary data (updated every three months) as provided by state departments of labor (or equivalent organizations) to the United States Department of Labor, and various state and national statistical entities, including the Bureau of the Census, the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), and the Bureau of Economic Analysis (BEA). O*NET data, since it provides comparable specific wage and salary data from jurisdictions throughout the country keyed to job classifications throughout the spectrum of both public and private employment, is an invaluable tool in assessing and designing compensation plans.

Services provided by the Institute are always targeted toward the needs of the municipality and are generally conducted through a contractual arrangement between the Institute and the municipality. In most cases, the contracting party supports the Institute’s work by providing funds to cover the incremental costs associated with the successful performance of tasks outlined in a “scope of work” document, a jointly-developed appendix to a standard contract outlining the deliverables and respective responsibilities of both parties throughout the course of the agreement.

Determining the proper compensation for an employee is not a straightforward process.

Many different methods and theories abound, each promising, with the application of a formula or through the use of a survey, to produce a correct compensation “figure”. Practical experience with the process of determining compensation for employees belies this simple concept. Often, the best results are achieved through an amalgamation of several different methods of compensation analysis.

In many organizations, management unilaterally determines the pay to be offered to employees. This does not imply, however, that management has complete control in setting pay levels. There are three constraints on the ability of management to determine pay levels: the external labor market, internal equity, and the organizational hierarchy.

1. The first constraint is the external labor market. Classical economics teaches that labor is like any other commodity or product, and therefore has a market. Within this market, the forces of supply and demand work to produce a “price” for different positions. For example, due to the heavy demand for truck drivers from the growing trucking industry, the number of available positions in this industry has increased. Since there are a relatively short supply of an available labor force with the corresponding knowledge, skills, and abilities able to fill these positions, the “price” of a truck driver has also increased in recent years. This “price” is simply the hourly wage or the fixed salary that an organization must offer a person to fill the requisite position— the position’s compensation; simply, the external labor market must be considered when developing competitive and equitable compensation plans.

2. The second constraint on management is the concept of internal equity. This concept refers to the principles that a position in one area of the organization should be offered the same level of compensation as that same position in another area of the same organization. Within a municipality, for example, given similar job tasks, an administrative assistant in the Mayor’s Office should have pay equity with a similarly situated administrative assistant in the Public Works Department. Ignoring internal equity concerns can lead to high turnover and low morale amount employees.
3. The third constraint on management is the organizational hierarchy. In a hierarchical organization, it is vital that managers have a greater level of compensation than the subordinates they supervise. Ignoring issues related to organizational hierarchy can lead to poor management performance and reduced motivation among employees.

EXTERNAL LABOR MARKET

In developing compensation plans for county and municipal governments, salary survey instruments developed by the Institute are distributed to organizations that are either in the city’s local labor market or are comparable to the municipality or county under review. Factors used to determine comparability to other cities and counties include population ( $\pm 25\%$ ) annual general fund budget, number of employees, and types of services offered to the public. All survey results are verified and standardized in format by Institute staff. In cases where only a range was reported for a specific position, the average of the high and low salary listings is used in the computations.

The place of a given job’s rank within an organizational value system is reflected in the position’s compensation, particularly in the form of a base rate or range of pay. With local governments existing in competitive labor markets, systems that establish the relative value of positions are important to both employees and management, as they establish the basis for equity, at least in a traditional sense.

Within public organizations, job hierarchies and organizational structure are used for more than simply determining compensation. Both serve as general guides in recruitment and selection of employees; further, establishing job evaluation systems related to hierarchy and organizational structure can be an important tool in:

1. Redesigning organizational processes.
2. May assist management in career planning, training and professional development; and
3. May provide guidance in job assignments and during times of reductions in force.

The essence of internal job evaluation is the rating or ranking of jobs by their relative worth to the organization and is composed of a variety of job evaluation factors. Technically, these factors need to:

1. Be present in varying degrees relative to individual jobs,
2. Be minimized in number,
3. Be discrete in meaning in order to avoid double weighting, and
4. Be known (to some degree) for all positions in the system.
5. Finally, each identified factor must measure individual aspects of the position itself, rather than the incumbent holding the position within an organization.

Some of the most commonly used factors include:

1. Job requirements,
2. Responsibility,
3. Working conditions,
4. Physical demands,
5. Difficulty of work, both intellectually, physically, and emotionally,
6. Nature and degree of required personal relationships, and
7. Leadership and management requirements.

Most compensation plans designed by the Institute are based on a standard format utilizing a grade and step system (presented on the next page), which helps to provide stability in an organization’s overall compensation system. The plan itself is based upon the premise of providing the current minimum wage at Grade One Step One; all other grades and steps are calculated from this base level. An increase in grade represents a ten percent (10%) increase in compensation, while an increase to a higher step within each grade represents a three percent (3%) increase in compensation.

Positions are placed on a grade within the plan using data returned through internal and external data collection; each position is placed so that its compensation is appropriate for the “rank” of the position with the organizational structure. Individual employees are assigned to a specific step within the grade associated with their current position, based upon their current annual wage and the length of their tenure with the organization. Proposed salaries are never lower than the employee’s current rate of pay; each position receives at least a small increase to properly assign the employee to an exact step on the pay scale. Every effort is made to maintain internal pay equity between comparable positions, and further, to standardize wages among similar positions to the greatest extent possible.

IMPLEMENTATION

Implementation of a compensation plan rests within the authority of the governing body of the organization; the plan itself exists as a guide or framework that can be used to guide current and future personnel and compensation decisions. Almost all plans developed by the Institute, when they are released and accepted by a local Board (or governing authorities), are adjusted by Board action to reflect the Board’s thoughts and feelings regarding specific local conditions inherent within the organization. Personnel plans developed by the Institute should exist as ‘living documents’, and continually evolve with the organization over time in order to retain their value. In some cases, plans may need to be reviewed periodically to account for changes in the external labor market, and to ensure continued commitment to maintaining external and internal equity among positions.

SURVEY INSTRUMENT

February 15, 2021

Dear Municipal Official,

The John C. Stennis Institute of Government and Community Development, on behalf of the Mississippi Municipal League, is conducting the 2021 Municipal Salary and Benefits Survey. The completed survey will be available in time for the Mississippi Municipal League (MML) Annual Conference this summer as well as online.

Please complete the attached survey, which includes a listing of common municipal positions from several departments. We understand that municipalities are different and may not have every position listed on the survey. Bearing this in mind, please provide as much information as possible. If you do not have the exact job title but have a job with similar responsibilities, please report the closest information for the similar job.

Please mail, fax, or e-mail the completed survey to us by Friday, May 28, 2021.

Mailing Address:
ATTN: 2021 MML Salary and Benefits Survey
Stennis Institute
P.O. Drawer LV,
Mississippi State, MS, 39762

Fax: 662-325-5772

E-mail: msmlsurvey@sig.msstate.edu

If you prefer, this survey is also available to be filled out online at the link below:
<https://www.sig.msstate.edu/survey/survey-2021/>

If you have any questions regarding the enclosed survey, please do not hesitate to call me. On behalf of the Mississippi Municipal League and the Stennis Institute, we thank you for your time and effort.

Sincerely,
